ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the death of William Chapman Lyman, 84, occurred Thursday evening at St. Joseph's hospital. Mr. Lyman was taken suddenly ill Monday afternoon and was taken to the hospital later in the day, and his condition steadily grew worse. He was born in the town of Bolton March 8, 1835, the son of Jacob and Dorcas Chapman Lyman.

When the Civil war broke out Mr. Lyman enlisted in the 1st Connecticut cavalry and was soon appointed sergeant. With his regiment he took part in some 20 battles, his last fight being in the battle of Winchester, when his horse was shot under him, and he himself sustained bad wounds. His wound received in this battle came at an unfavorable time for Mr. Lyman, as his name had been sent in and he had been recommended for a lieutenancy. At the close of the war he came to the Hartford Commercial school, believing that he could longer follow his trade as a carpenter due to the injury to his leg. He was graduated from that school and also received his degree of his law, thus being able to take up his former occupation.

Retiring from this line of work in later years, he was chosen or appointed to several town and city offices, being alderman, probate officer and agent of the town deposit fund. For the past 10 years he had held the office of probate officer for this city, doing his duty faithfully. His kindly advice to those who came under his care during these years went many a person back to his or her work with new hopes of success. In politics Mr. Lyman was ever a staunch republican.

He was an active member of Francis S. Long post, No. 30, G. A. R., and during his time as a member of that organization he had held in turn all of its offices.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Clifford Almond of this city, and Mrs. John Wood of Providence.

Recently it was announced that the journeymen carpenters of Willimantic were seeking an increase of 20 per cent. in wages from the local master butchers. This latter demand has been settled by agreement of the butchers to pay the carpenters $26 a week for inside work and $27 for outside work.

This agreement was reached after the butchers had offered the men an increase of 11 per cent. to take effect June 1st, and their offer had been refused by the carpenters. The date finally decided upon was April 1st and the butchers agreed to readjustment of wages is to be considered.

Mr. and Mrs. Gager and Miss Nettie Moore will leave for Florida Monday for a few weeks' visit.

A social meeting of the Ladies' society of the First Congregational church the following officers and members of committees were appointed for the ensuing year:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Bred Strand Evening.

Constance Talmadge heads the bill at the Bred Strand evening in The Lesson. This is a story that makes a strong mental appeal and so perfectly has it been done with the beautiful settings that the appeal made to the eye is every bit as strong. It is thrilling, absorbing and entertaining. It is a picture for everyone. Adventure and romance—thrills and sensation—sentiment and pathos—and humor too. You will find all this in The Lesson.

William Parsons in Circumstantial Evidence, Topics of the Day and Kinograms make up the remainder of the bill for Sunday evening.

At the Strand.

Today is the last day to see The Strand's big show that has entertained the thousands of people who have seen it. This show is better than ever. Fred Weber & Co. made a great hit with the people in a voice throwing act which he throws anywhere.

Alvin and Kenny have a comedy trapeze act that went over strong. The clown in this act is a scream. Do not miss this act. Bert and Milt Britton are two very clever jazz boys that play those jazzy musical instruments that will make you sway and keep time.

The six-reel special feature starring Pearl Sheppard, Leah Baird and Milt Britton, "The Echo of Youth" is one of the finest pictures of its kind ever shown on any screen. The subject is handled most delicately and could not possibly give offense to the most prudish. A Galety comedy and an up to date weekly are also included in this big show at the Strand. Today is your last day to see it.

At the Strand.

The Strand's wonderful program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is one that is full of entertainment from start to finish. Little Jerry, who is called the vest pocket comedian or a Mite of Mirth, will start things off. He is one of the smartest funny men on the stage today. He is only forty-two inches tall. He will entertain you with his latest talk, songs and dances. He is sure to have you laughing all the way through. Duncan and Albert is a monologue and singing act that is a scream. This man and woman win the prize when it comes to making things merry. This act is a show by itself. Chief Little Elk will be seen in a spectacular revue. This act uses all its own scenery and it will make you think back to the days of 1919. The seven-reel special feature that will be shown is adapted from Howard Hall's stage play of the same name which had a successful eight months' run at the Republic theatre, New York city. Starting out at a placid pace the film gathers speed as it advances, the interest steadily increases and the atmosphere of suspense is sustained up to the final reel, which closes with a forceful climacter in the judgment of many spectators.

RING'S MARKET PREPARED FOR OPENING TODAY

Manager Herbert Ring and his staff of clerks at the new Ring's market in the Taylor building on Franklin square, spent a busy day Friday getting the store ready for the formal opening today (Saturday). They were working till the evening getting everything ready for the opening of the store and giving the public opportunity to inspect their high quality merchandise with which the place has been stocked. The store is the best to be found in metropolitan markets.

The well lighted store and its showy window made an especially attractive appearance Friday evening with its tasteful arrangement of every kind of produce to be obtained at this season of the year. The public that visits it today will find much to admire in the appointments and stock of the Ring Market.

Davis Theatre Next Week.

A rare treat is in store for screen fans. "The Miracle Man," a new Paramount-Lasker picture, will be shown at the Davis theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. George M. Cohan's Broadway success of the same name, based upon the famous story by Frank R. Packard.

"The Miracle Man" crowds into one picture more experiences, good and bad, than most people know in a lifetime. The story begins in New York's Chinatown, where a gang of clever crooks—the "Frog" and the "Dope" Burke and his "girl" Rose—conduct a thriving "business" of fleeing unwary slummers.

One Burke reads of an aged deaf and blind man, the con man, who is said to heal the ailing by faith. He decides to exploit the "fake" and, with the help of his pals, makes rich his fortune as the "Miracle Man's" guileful patients.

Rose, assuming a role of sweet innocence, pretends to be a distant relative of the "healer" and goes to live in his cottage. The "Frog" and the "Dope" are then able to get into the place, and, with the help of his pals, makes rich his fortune as the "Miracle Man's" guileful patients.

Rose, assuming a role of sweet innocence, pretends to be a distant relative of the "healer" and goes to live in his cottage. The "Frog" and the "Dope" are then able to get into the place, and, with the help of his pals, makes rich his fortune as the "Miracle Man's" guileful patients.

But to the amazement of the rogues, the old man's simple belief works wonders. They find that their "fake" is bringing health and happiness to the afflicted.

One by one, Burke loses his own rank. The girl pretending to be good, becomes good. In their new surroundings, the "Frog" and the "Dope" grow out of their bad ways and into men. Through jealousy and suffering, the gentle influence of the "Miracle Man" even the hardened, cynical Burke learns that money and vice are not enough.

The end is a happy beginning for Tom and Rose, for the "Dope" and his village bride, for the "Frog" and his little "adored mother" of a new road that leads to a better life.

A picture in the greatest sense. Matinee at 2:15, all seats 25 cents. Evening 6:45 and 8:45, 25, 35
